The Sun of Hope upon the Horizon

In your hearts and minds you know that God does love you. In your hearts and minds you feel devoid of words and the comprehensions of man's ideation that the throb of immortal love and the passion of God as life for life is within you and in the world and in nature. And behold, in its basic simplicity it comes into the mind as joy and hope. But the world has enclosed it as in a box, and behold, it has become a shroud. And gloom is spread among mankind, and the fear of death and of that which shall be.

That which is is that which shall be! That which was is that which shall be! For the future is spun out of the present moment, and man must see that the lingering remnants of divine grace are apparent and manifest in the flame of life that is within their heart.

If tonight I could gather all of the children of mankind together upon one hillside, and if I could speak unto them all, it would be the message of the resurrection and the ascension.

The Sun of Hope upon the Horizon

I AM the light that shone in the darkness, and the darkness comprehended it not.<sup>1</sup> My sheep know my voice<sup>2</sup> and understand that where two or three are gathered together in my name and by my power and spirit, there I AM in the midst of them.<sup>3</sup>

The peril of the world is unparalleled. And in a very real sense, I say unto you all that our heavenly Father, the eternal God, is crucified in Matter. His energy is involved in that which men do, for there is no other source of energy than that which cometh from on high. And mankind would do well, then, to understand the heavenly rule and measure that they mete out. For whatsoever mankind shall mete out, it shall be measured unto them again.<sup>4</sup>

It is not vain words that speak but the law of life eternal, as life calleth out unto life and speaketh by the passion of that divine love that framed the worlds and made each starry system to give that joyous gasp of cognition, saying, “Lo, I AM come.”

For out of the void and the darkness, the beauty of the light shone. And the light was charged with hope, and the hope was given unto mankind. It is as a swaddling garment that encloses man around about with light, and there is no darkness in it at all. For behold, the purity of that essence is the basis of Creation. It is the song and joy of God as it throbs through the universe and bursts each day into splendid rising as the sun of hope upon the horizon.

In your hearts and minds you know that God does love you. In your hearts and minds you feel devoid of words and the comprehensions of man's ideation that the throb of immortal love and the passion of God as life for life is within you and in the world and in nature. And behold, in its basic simplicity it comes into the mind as joy and hope. But the world has enclosed it as in a box, and behold, it has become a shroud. And gloom is spread among mankind, and the fear of death and of that which shall be.

That which is is that which shall be! That which was is that which shall be! For the future is spun out of the present moment, and man must see that the lingering remnants of divine grace are apparent and manifest in the flame of life that is within their heart.

The Message of the Resurrection and the Ascension

If tonight I could gather all of the children of mankind together upon one hillside, and if I could speak unto them all, it would be the message of the resurrection and the ascension. “I am the resurrection and the life”<sup>5</sup> is the power germinal within you, which from the Beginning framed you as a child of beauty and radiant joy. You were then glorious in your appearance, and there was not a single shred of darkness or unknowing within you.

But mankind have compartmentalized the universe and subdivided it into portions. As was spoken of old, “And Adam saw the animals that were created and he gave them names,”<sup>6</sup> in that day—the day of Adam, the day of mortality, of the red earth—man came forth, the Babylonian creation, to rise to the apex of many civilizations and cycles. But out of it all was the eternal Call, the immortal pursuing of immortality—pursuing immortality in form and seeking to break that form, that the remnant-control could be aborted and the perfection of the Presence replace it.

The perfection of the Presence is a splendid, shining thing, not for the dust of a moment but for the burnishing of eternal values. This beauty and perfection that is within the mind and heart has the power to tremble the outer world and the outer form and to show to that form the Reality unveiled within.

Man must learn, then, to sunder the veil that separates the holy place and the Most Holy Place, that the high priest of the Holy Christ Self may pulsate and rise to the vision of the eternal Father and, beholding the eternal Father, vouchsafe to the son below the Presence immortal, that seeing may become being and man may pursue that view, which is light eternal upon the mountain of man's hopes, a towering hope that will not let you down.

How Glorious Is the Seed of Faith

I come to you, then, tonight to cite a memorial to all who in the lowly places of this Earth planet have kept the vigil in their heart of the sacred fire, who have kept faith with the immortal Presence and have understood that heaven has gazed upon mankind in their struggles and has sought the emancipation of every soul.

We have seen every individual who has cried out in the night for assistance in moments when the world seemed dark and the person seemed to act as a shroud enclosing self. Then we have come, and suddenly in the midst of despair and turmoil there has been the breaking forth of the light! And the light has brought the glimmer of hope—first a small light and then a sudden burst ultimating.

O precious ones, how glorious is the seed of faith in anyone—woman, man, or child. For out of faith is born the will to pursue the goal and to conclude the mission unto its end. And so in this place, small by mortal standards, where a few can gather in my name, there has come this night a great light.

A Prayer for the Children of the Sun

Our Father, we call unto thee to pierce the void, the veil of mortal illusion, and to bring forth some remnant of thyself as shining fragment immortal. Let each soul, then, be touched by a coal from thy altars,<sup>7</sup> that the throb of thy power may be made known, that no longer shall man dwell in faithlessness but in the fullness and beauty of hope.

Let all feel the pulsation of thy Reality in themselves for a moment, that they may see. I ask it, O eternal One, because thou hast loved the many.

As thou hast loved them, O God, I call unto thee. So do thou bestow upon them the vestments of hope, that that hope that they receive may be nourished by faith, and then through the alchemy of action produce the miracle of the Holy Spirit, culminating in a temple in which dwells thyself in fullness, in beauty, in the eternal showing of thyself.

Take each one, then, of these my sheep who will hear my voice, and lead them by the hand gently beside the still waters of knowing, of serenity and perfection and faith.

Let them understand the miracle of the cruse of oil that failed not.<sup>8</sup> Let them understand the miracle of faith and perfection, and let the focus of light created here be nourished by hearts who will understand the perils of the moment and offer their energies to the light, that out of the light that we are may be born in the world of form the eternal city, the glowing-fire city of the Sun, that the children of the Sun may be nourished and the garments of the Sun become their garments, that the wind may become the means of uplifting them and initiating them into the joy of the Holy Spirit and the purity of thyself in action.

And now as we enfold them in our love, may they consummate within the ritual of becoming all that I AM. May they understand that to claim this is their birthright immortal, that they have but to seek and to express that Reality—which thou art, which I AM—that they have but to claim this for themselves and so it will be.

When mankind understand the simplicity of a child, that as a little child they can receive the Father within, it will come to pass that the ashes of worldly conceptions will no more be their concern. For the fire that shall try every man's work shall also produce that transmutative example of beautiful, eternal perfection whereby the clay vessel is molded in our image and the consciousness itself becomes a chalice cup so that we may pour into those cups higher dimensions of reality until all become that ocean of beauty and strength that we are.

Our Father, we thank thee this moment for this moment, and we thank thee for eternity, for eternity. We ask then that the angels of my band, twelve legions of angels, shall come forth now in thy name into the world, in this moment of peril, to aid all who love in their becoming that love. For there are forces of darkness and destruction in the world that would part mankind from his spiritual heritage and destroy his faith.

We Bestow upon All the Fragrance of Immortality

Let us, then, call for these angels from on high to descend, to join in with Archangel Michael's power to defend in this very hour the youth of the world against the depredations of the brothers of the shadow, who have sought to bring all manner of dark conditions into the world whereby mankind are splintered from the light of the eternal Presence, and the light of hope, then, is gone out. Having no spiritual hope, they pursue a short aim of temporal power and pleasure.

We come to bestow upon all the Rose of Sharon,<sup>9</sup> the fragrance of immortality, the joy of the angels, the strength of God's arm, and the power that leadeth unto life eternal. We bestow, then, this hour, our love upon you. We bestow, then, this hour, our wisdom upon you. And we hold in abeyance our power.

For power given to mankind, until he is able to use it, can become a weapon for destruction and the production of much karma. This was why the Lords of Karma long ago, precious ones, did cause the silver cord, which connects mankind's physical body temple with the light of his Presence, to be decreased in size, thus terminating man's life span.

Now, then, precious ones, understand that this was by cosmic plan and purpose. But recently in one of the classes, for those in attendance, there was given a dispensation whereby that stream of radiant energy was enlarged to twice its size.<sup>10</sup>

We show, then, the mercy of heaven to all who are here so that you may understand that this moment the world is in brutal peril. Yet we live, and the masters of wisdom serve to give to you our love. And that love is great enough to save the whole world from destruction, even as expressed to this few.

Sanat Kumara Has Come to Grace This Platform

For I bring now into view the holy circle of the twelve. For there are circles, even as in Ezekiel, wheels within wheels,<sup>11</sup> cadres of masterful persons that work and serve together in various eras and areas of life. These individuals, coming from distant star systems as well as your own solar system, do manifest specific intent of God-direction.

And you are very blessed, then, to have with you tonight from Venus that beloved and magnificent holy one, Sanat Kumara, Lord of the Flame, who has this night come to me and graced this platform with his Presence. [Audience rises.] This, then, shows that Terra is very much blessed because there are circles and circles and circles of individuals drawn together for specific services.

Have you thought upon it, precious ones, how that you are moving in a specific circle of family and friends, how that you are moving in a specific circle of country and race, how that you are moving upon this planet as a circular orbit around the sun system?

All these circles are intended as focuses where individuals can serve and together retain and grow, expand, and love under the aegis of the Holy Spirit, until the whole circle becomes the illustrious glow of the intentions of our Father, who art in heaven.

My Spirit Remains with You to Comfort You Forever

The time has come when I must leave you. But I have not left you comfortless, for my Spirit remains with you. Lo, it remains with you to comfort you forever, and I will also come when you call upon me for the purposes of our Father's work.

Out of the light I will come! And I will bring the fervor of my feeling into manifestation within you, and the joy of my abundance. I will enfold you as with swaddling garments, and behold, these garments are garments of light. I will drive out fear and I will position you in the sense of immortality, and I will show you the way to go. And the masters of wisdom that work and serve with me will also come to you and be your brother, even as I am. For we are indeed our brothers' keepers.

Let all understand that to hold the flame high, to hold the flame sacred, is the God-intent for every man. The LORD God will not leave you comfortless, but he will send a flame within you that shall pulsate there and be the keeper of your destiny.

Understand, then, that communion with our octave and the ranges of light is the only reality that the world ought ever to know. For all that the world knoweth today of knowledge and the fashion thereof shall pass away and be no more.<sup>12</sup>

But the light that I AM—the illumination flame from whence all outer knowledge came—will remain to produce the miracle of those cities of light, those alabaster, beautiful, glorious, eternal cities that are the intent of God, where harmony shall reign in every heart and peace at every hearth.

Grace, perfection, and God's will unto you all.

I thank you.

Prophet on Wednesday, February 28, 1968, in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. (1) John 1:5. (2) John 10:27. (3) Matt. 18:20. (4) Matt. 7:2. (5) John 11:25. (6) See Gen. 2:19. (7) See Isa. 6:6. (8) See I Kings 17:8–16. (9) Song of Sol. 2:1. (10) That stream of radiant energy was enlarged to twice its size. On December 31, 1966, beloved Oromasis gave the following teaching on the expansion of the silver cord.* He said: "And we give to you this day a measure, a portion of our heart's flame that you may indeed carry the focus of the Great Central Sun Magnet, going forth, then, in the throngs and the multitudes, wherever you are, as a mighty electrode of light, demagnetizing the effluvia and the human creation from those around you and magnetizing their hearts and their heart's flame in a greater and renewed effort for the fulfillment of the divine Word. . . . In those who serve and take up the calling, using the mighty release of light that is given to them each day, there will be an expansion and not a retreat of the silver cord. Each one, then, will emerge from this year 1967 either victorious or diminished in size and proportion. I warn you never to glorify in the death or the punishment of another, precious ones, for 'Vengeance is mine; I will repay.'" (Rom. 12:19) (11) See Ezek. 1:16. (12) I Cor. 7:31.

*"Silver" or "crystal" are used interchangeably to designate the lifestream of energy descending from the I AM Presence through the Christ Self to the heart chakra of the individual, where it bursts forth as the threefold flame on the altar of being.
